MUST HOLD KEMEL HILL

Occupation of This Point by Germans Would Necessitate Force the Allied Troops to Abandon the Ypres Salient.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, April 26.—The Germans in their attack on the northern battle front have occupied Kemel hill, General De-more Radcliff, chief director of military operation of war office stated this afternoon.The enemy troops kept pushing until they flung their line in a circle about Kemel. Throughout the early hours of the day they tried again and again to swarm up the slope of the hill but each time met with such a grilling punishment that they were unable to get forward.
Six hours of fighting passed before any German infantry was able to get near the top of the hill.HEAVY FIGHTING.— Heavy fighting is still in progress today along the ridge line of the Flanders front where the peak of Mont Kemel is the German objective.This peak evidently is yet disputed ground but with the German threat again more menacing, as it is conceded by the British official report that the enemy has secured a footing on the hill.IN FLANDERS.—Flanders is again the scene of the full tide of battle.
Against Mont Kemel and the other high points forming the backbone of the German line, the British armies are hurling thousands of troops. Standing on their second defense line and with Mont Kemel still in their possession the British are fighting tenaciously.Unable to make progress against the defense of the British, French and American troops on the south of the Salient, the Germans are now attacking the northern battle grounds.GAVE GROUND.—As on Wednesday his first assault on a severe fight from Bailloult to Kemel to the British were successful and the allied troops were compelled to give up their first defense line. The British and French were persistent in their vain attempt to capture Kemel two years ago.It is not improbable the Germans are making some advance preparation for an effort some place also. It is significant they have attacked on the most important sectors of the front.SOUTH OF SOMME.—South of the Somme the Germans have been driving from high ground and the village of Bailloult. The British and French have been fighting a hard fight. The British and French have been fighting a hard fight.CHANNEL BLOCKED.—Complete blockade is announced, attended the submarine and courageous raid on the German submarine base at Zeebrugge.
The British and French have been fighting a hard fight. The British and French have been fighting a hard fight. The British and French have been fighting a hard fight.Hold Line.— Although faced by a superior force on the ten mile sector between Bailloult and Kemel, the British and French troops holding the line on the British side of the Salient, giving ground only when compelled to by weight of numbers. The line seems to have held fairly well to the southwest of Kemel, where the British are fighting a hard fight. The British and French have been fighting a hard fight. The British and French

WILL NOT ENTER RACE FOR STATE ASSEMBLY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 26.—Lawrence S. Whittet of Edgerton, twice speaker of the assembly, and three times a member of the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature, will not be a candidate for re-election. This important announcement was made by Speaker Whittet before he left for Edgerton last night. It means that the coming session of the legislature will be the last in which he will take the place of Mr. Whittet, who presided over the deliberations of the 1915 and 1917 sessions of the Wisconsin legislature.He has decided not to be a candidate for the assembly this year," said Speaker Whittet. "I have presided over two sessions of the legislature and I feel that it would be unkind to seek a re-election and prevent some other man having the honor of being speaker of the house. I have labored to do the best I could in the interest of the people of my district and of the state."Speaker Whittet said he had no other political plans. He will probably continue in the executive office as chief of the state police and as adviser. It is known, however, that an effort is being made by the people at Washington, to have Mr. Whittet serve in some important position.
Among conservative republicans three names have been mentioned: Assemblyman D. W. Peterson, Racine; Riley S. Young, Watertown; and W. Smith Clark, Edgerton. The name of Assemblyman Charles D. Rosa, Beloit, has been mentioned. He was the progressive leader of the recent session of the legislature. In democratic circles the names of Assemblymen John Nord-nelly, Milwaukee, and Edward Nord-nelly, Polk, have been suggested.The British took the night com-paign operation here for the time being by cleaning out hostile posts which were holding out to the southeast of the village. The British held the line and were more well on the high ground in this sector.Counter Attacks.— With the British army in France, April 26.—The French this morning launched a counter attack on Mont Kemel in an attempt to reclaim the position taken by the Germans. Yesterday's fighting was of a desperate nature and the British gains only were made at a high cost.At Kemel Hill.— London, April 26.—A feeling has been obtained on Kemel hill, the northern battle front, the war office announced today. The fighting is still continuing in this region. The allied forces engaged all day yesterday with great efforts to capture the hill. The British and French forces were compelled to give ground.German Reports.—

brugge generally take the hint given in

PLANT THE GARDEN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, April 26.—The home gardener who is not certain when he should plant his seeds may get more valuable information by watching the process of Nature, and "taking" from her.
Garden specialists of the United States department of agriculture divide vegetables into two classes—"warm" and "cold" temperature vegetables. When peach and plum trees are in blossom, they say, it is time to sow in the open ground such seeds as lettuce, radish, parsnip, beet, turnip, cabbage, carrots, peas and onions. The wrinkled peas should not be planted until later, as they are more likely to rot in cool ground than the smooth peas. When the apple blossoms fall it is time to plant the heat-loving vegetables, such as cucumbers, beans, sweet corn, pumpkin, and squash. This is said to be an old but excellent rule.NINE REPORTED KILLED

WOUNDED IN DUGOUT
IN "NO MAN'S LAND"

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

With the American army in France, April 26.—Two American soldiers were found in a dug-out in No Man's Land. The dug-out had been badly smashed by German shell-fire and how the men managed to keep alive in the rain and mud and continuous bombardment, physicians say, is little short of miraculous.
Another soldier, Raymond Demunsky, of New Haven, Conn., was buried alive for three days when he crawled to the surface. Demunsky was born in Russia, but is naturalized. He was found by American Red Cross stretchers who went out into No Man's Land this morning. The Germans fired on the Red Cross flag, but the stretchers kept waving it and the enemy fire stopped.The American troops in their fight, additional details show, were outraged. The Germans fired on the Red Cross flag, but the stretchers kept waving it

SPEAKER REAL STAR WITHOUT TEMPERAMENT

New York, April 25.—Tris Speaker, the wonderful outfielder star of the Cleveland Indians, has blossomed out as a new kind of star—one without temper.

He went to the bat, the return boss of the Indians, declares Tris to be the best player absolutely—that he ever worked with. Tris, according to Bell, is a man with everything—brains, but not fielding, and all the rest of it. He is the famous outfielder has a reputation that is the temper of the Indians. He's the friend of every body. The kids who hang around the ball park and who, like kids everywhere, adore the great game, know Speaker as their pal—a good fellow and a very friend.

Speaker's station is forced on him by a hunger for publicity. He goes with a harmonizing effect into the general makeup of the ball team. There is no grandstanding, no wild swinging, no over-the-top, no ball playing. He is in a ball game to do a day's work, and if any one doubts that this king of ball players does it he is invited to peruse the American league records for corroborating.

The writer recalls an incident that took place one day, with Speaker one of the principals, when he was with a group of his aversion to the popular pastime of seeking publicity.

Speaker was then touring the country with the Chicago White Sox. He was standing there, around the world. Some one wanted a photo of the famous outfielder and he was requested to pose.

Tris, who grew with a smile and a cigar between his teeth, "Well, stand right here just like I am and if you want to shoot, why don't you shoot?"

And he couldn't budge. The snapshot was pulled off with Speaker leaning against the wall of a hotel building. This was pulled down over his eyes. He was standing, looking away at the short stub of a cigar, but he cared whether he showed as a real star when the photograph was taken.

Great, but different is this description from the same thing which is written of other stars. The common belief is that they are all alike, and in other pursuits, it is that they must be petted and pampered. Some of them have to be practically coaxed to play baseball. Some have nothing on them, but the speaker—a ball game is a day's work, and he does it far better than most of rival luminaries.

PENN RELAY GAMES ARE AWAITED WITH INTEREST

NEW YORK, April 25.—Eastern followers of track and field athletics are awaiting the University of Pennsylvania relay games to be held April 26 and 27, with more than the usual interest.

The relay is the annual weather game by which the prospects for the year are judged and owing to war conditions the attendance, though expected to be small, will be subject to closer scrutiny than is ordinarily the case. This is particularly true of the three national college championship races which are the center of the two-day meet.

The drawings for these events show that twenty college teams will be entered in the east and west, and the standard of past and present seasons and if all the teams up to the starting mark, the prospects for the year will be judged and owing to war conditions the attendance, though expected to be small, will be subject to closer scrutiny than is ordinarily the case. MANY MAJOR LEAGUERS ARE FIGHTING THE HUNS

NEW YORK, April 25.—Many names that appeared daily in the box scores last season are missing this year.

The alluring business of hunting the Hun is the answer.

Practically every major league club is represented in the list of American and National leaguers with the army or navy, and as the wheels of Uncle Sam's machine continue to grind the list will grow.

The American league, with an average of younger players than the National is represented by more men and three clubs in the junior circuit can boast upward of five service stars.

The upheaval in Red Sox ranks caused by enlistments has almost completely changed the complexion of the club, while the enlistments, coupled with the sale of players by Connie Mack, has changed the scenery of the Athletics as completely as if the club had been wiped off the map by a tornado.

Boston's American league club is represented under the national emblem by Jack Barry, Duffy Lewis, Ernie Shore, Harold Jourdain, Del Gainer, McNally, Walsh, Pennock and Bader. Cleveland has lost Louis Guter, Jack Dugan, Jack Pease, George Dickerson, Chet Truesdale and Elmer Smith. Pitchers Elmer and Oldham, and players Hollywood, Nicholson, Puller, Alton and Baker, most of whom are recruits, represent Detroit.

Bob Shawkey, Ray Fisher, Smallwood and Kane, of the Yankees; Menosky, Leonard and Murray, of the Red Sox; George, Koenig and Jacobson, of the Browns; Scott, Jenkins, Payne and Volokovitz, of the White Sox; and Haley, Anderson, Bates, and Schaefer, of the Athletics, are all American league players with the colors.

Joe Rodgers has Chuck Ward, Leon Cline, Edward Smith, Malone, Kelleher, Milns and Fitzsimmons in the service, either army or navy. Hank Gowdy, Rabbit Marquardt, Morris, and the Reds; Jack Miller, Goodwin, Purdie and Knight, of the Cards; Kelly, Baird and Jones, of the Athletics; and the Pirates, and the Phillies, have heard the call.

Other players will be drafted, and if the need of men becomes acute, many players are expected to enlist.

In a letter from France, Allen Dearborn of this city tells of being transferred from the heavy artillery to an engineering corps. Sergeant Frank Murphy also writes a very interesting letter from France, in which he tells of the breaking up of Company M, and of the work that is being done in France at the present time.

Allen Dearborn: In his letter Allen Dearborn tells of how the boys spent Lincoln's birthday. While in high school Mr. Dearborn gave attention on Lincoln and he states in his letter that he repeated it for the members of his battery on Lincoln's birthday. He also tells of how the men honored Lincoln, and how they receive a pay day and also mail from this country. In regard to war news Sergeant Murphy states that the boys in France very seldom hear of what is going on in the front line trenches. He also states that the boys from Janesville miss the theatres very much.

Mechanic Thiele tells in his letter of the breaking up of Co. M. He states that all of the privates were transferred to a regular army unit and that all the remains in the front line trenches. He also states that the boys from Janesville miss the theatres very much.

Edgerton, April 26.—A fire in the Williams barber shop last night destroyed the entire block for a time and but for the timely arrival of the fire department would have caused considerable damage. A gas heater located under the stairs, which started the fire, and the occupants of the offices on the upper floor were forced to get out of the building by the use of a ladder. Fred Blesman, one of the firemen, got next to a live wire and he was unable to let go without the aid of some of his fellow firemen. His hand was severely burned by the current. Outside of a severe burn on his hand he suffered no ill-effects from his experience. The interior of the barber shop was charred considerably and the offices on the second floor sustained some damage from the smoke. The shoe store in the Anderson-Farman company store was moved from the shelves, but the fire was extinguished before it reached the store. Chemicals played an important part in holding the fire in check until the fire company could get a lead of hose into place on the fire. The loss of fire was entirely covered by insurance.

Irene Smith.
The mortal remains of Irene Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Smith of Fremont street, who passed away in the city of Madison, Tuesday after a severe illness of pneumonia, were brought to Janesville this morning. Irene Smith was born in Chicago on January 10, 1899, and had lived with her parents in Janesville for many years where her home will surely be missed. Funeral services will be held at two o'clock in the afternoon in the Oak Hill cemetery. She leaves to mourn her loss her mother and father, one sister, Ruth, and six brothers, Fred, James, John, Sidney, Donald, Norman and Lester.

Callahan Corbett.
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. Corbett, former residents of this city, will be pleased to hear of the passing away of their little son, Callahan, who passed away at the family home yesterday afternoon. The child was a sweet, lovable child, and will be sorely missed in the home. He was the heartbroken parents he had a brother, Joseph. The funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning at 10:30 over the St. P. railroad, and will be held at the home of Mrs. Corbett, 1000 N. J. McCarthy, at 16 North Main street. The remains will be buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

John Eastman.
John Eastman, a former resident of this city, passed away at his home in Madison yesterday, according to word received by his cousin, George Miller, 121 North Washington street. The deceased was an old man and had many friends in this city. Funeral services will be held in Madison tomorrow afternoon.

Annie M. Ballard.
This morning at two o'clock the spirit of Annie M. Ballard passed into the world beyond at the Mercy hospital after a short illness. Mrs. Ballard was born on June 18, 1857, in Crystal Lake, Ill., and had only recently moved to Janesville with her husband and four children. Although only resident here for a short time, her amiable disposition and sterling character won for her many warm friends who feel the loss of a true Christian friend. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband and children, her mother and three sisters of Rockford, Ill. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

LOCAL BOARD TO ACT ON FURLOUGH CLAIMS

Applications of Men in Army Camps for Furloughs to Work on Farms Must Be Considered by the Local Board.

Rock county men in the army training camps who desire to obtain furloughs to go to their homes to work on farms must first make applications to their commanding officers. The applications will then be forwarded to the local board for action. It has been deemed wise to leave these matters to the judgment of the local board for the reason that it is more familiar with the agricultural conditions in the county.

It is the plan to grant furloughs to all men in either national guard camps, national army cantonments, or regular army camps who, before their entrance into military service were engaged in farming. This is one way in which the farm labor problem is going to be dealt with and it is expected that a considerable number of Rock county boys will apply for furloughs.

PRIZE FOR SCHOOL WITH BEST RECORD

Bronze Tablet Will Be Awarded School Having Highest Record for Sale of War Savings Stamps.

To the school the country which saves the largest amount, per capita, by means of War Savings Stamps, a bronze commemorative tablet will be given as a prize by Mrs. Mary C. Bradford, president of the national educational association. This is expected to be a great incentive to the pupils and interest in saving will become greater. The announcement of the prize was received by the school by County Superintendent O. D. Artzdel, who is pushing the sale of the third stamps in the schools throughout the county.

FORMER HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS IN CONTEST

The Latin League of Wisconsin colleges is holding its sixth annual contest at Madison today. Miss Pearl Gardner, Miss Henrietta Knuth, and Carroll Whaley are the representatives of Milton College. They were graduated from the local high school, and are continuing classical studies under Professor Deland. The contestants are given a piece of unfamiliar Latin to translate without the aid of notes or vocabulary. The league was organized by Professor Wright of Lawrence College.

Possible Enjoyment.
"Biggins is trying to be an optimist." "The last time I saw him he thought everything was going to smash." "He thinks so yet. But he's getting into a frame of mind that makes him suspect that maybe he'll enjoy seeing it happen."—Washington Star.

Love That Wins.
The love that is kind, that envies not, and is humble, will win its way through doors that are barred to the self-assertive and the overbearing.

CELEBRATED LIBERTY DAY WITH MONSTER PARADE AND PROGRAM

Several Hundred People Throng Down Town Streets Each in Afternoon—Exercises in Court House Park.

With the national colors flying from every store and office window in the downtown district this city observed liberty day in a very fitting manner. Early this morning Old Glory was flying from all the stores and the city took on a holiday spirit. Many of the factories closed down at noon and the business houses of the city closed at four o'clock.

The parade was one of the largest ever held in the lower city. The march started at four o'clock promptly with several hundred people in line, led by the Bower City band. Hundreds of fathers and mothers of Janesville boys now in the service of Uncle Sam marched in the parade, and each mother was presented with a service flag. The school children of the city also marched and each pupil carried a small flag. Streets were crowded long before the hour set for the parade by impatient sight-seers. Several industrial plants were also represented in the parade.

After the parade the exercises were held in the court house park just east of the court house. The program opened with the singing of America by the crowd which numbered several hundred. The school children of the city rendered several patriotic songs under the direction of Miss Sewell, and awards for the essays on the Liberty Day were presented while the honor flag which was recently won by this city in the Liberty Loan campaign was presented to the local committee.

Janesville today had its first opportunity of honoring the fathers and mothers of the Janesville soldiers and the parents of the boys were paid a fitting tribute. They were given the honor place in the parade and autos were furnished for those who were unable to walk.

RECRUITING STATION FOR MERCHANT MARINE AT LOCAL DRUG STORE

Smith's Drugstore, of Janesville, is among the 150 Wisconsin drugstores who have volunteered for special war duty as recruiting agents for the new American Merchant Marine, according to a statement issued today at the State headquarters of the United States Shipping Board Recruiting Service in the Milwaukee Federal Building.

These druggists represent the cities and larger towns of the entire State, from Superior to Deloit.

Each will conduct an enrolling station in his store, where American citizens, 21 to 30, experienced as firemen, may make application for special training at a Chicago school of engineering, where they will be fitted to serve as firemen, water-tenders and oilers in the New American Merchant Marine.

SIMON H. DORN WEDS MRS. MINNIE BUETOW

Simon H. Dorn of this city and Mrs. Minnie Buetow of Milton were united in marriage at Lockford on Tuesday. The wedding came as a complete surprise to Mr. Dorn's many friends in this city. The happy couple left immediately for a short honeymoon and are now at home to their many friends at 20 North Main street.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The Barberry That Must Go.

A number of people have asked the writer during the last few days how to distinguish the barberry that is so dangerous to wheat and other grains from the harmless variety. Some have brought branches from their own shrubs and others from school grounds or parks. All this indicates a willingness to follow the order of the mayor to dig up the barberry that breeds the black rust spores which in 1914 ruined 100,000,000 bushels of wheat in the United States.

It has occurred to the writer that there may be residents in the various parts of our city that would like to be sure whether they have the dangerous kind before taking action. Having this in mind he met with the various Janesville and Beloit high schools will meet this evening at seven-thirty in the annual league declamatory and oratorical contest. The winner of the contests this evening will go to Waterloo for the district contest. The program follows:

Oration. "The Mission of the Jew." Louis Kapitanoff. "Liberty, Bond Speech." Martin Garrity. "Toussaint L'Ouverture." John McDowell. "The Price of Peace." John Johnston. "Ann of Green Gables." Murder Charge. Sheboygan, April 25.—Charged with first degree murder, Mrs. Abraham Delanek was arrested at Kiel Wis., and taken to Plymouth where an inquest was being held over the body of her husband. The aged man is declared to have made a deathbed statement to the effect that he had been gradually poisoned. It is said that poison was found in his stomach. The warrant for Mrs. Delanek's arrest was issued on complaint of Dr. Arnold D. Block, a Milwaukee dentist and a son-in-law of Delanek.

LADIES ENTERTAIN MEMBERS OF DRAMATIC ORGANIZATION

Six ladies of the Methodist church acted as hostesses to the cast of a play at a dinner served at 6:40 o'clock last evening in the dining room of the church. It has about fifteen people in the cast. The ladies who were hostesses of the occasion were: Mrs. Bert Beck, Mrs. Paul Trumbull, Mrs. Ploy Hoague, Mrs. Carl Beck, Mrs. J. H. Nichols and Miss Helen Peterson. Red candles formed the table decorations.

The Daily Novelette

IN THE SERVICE

(Synopsis of preceding chapters: Yearning to do his bit for his country, Anatol Buttons, although fat-footed, clumsy, short-winded, and so near sighted that he can scarcely see his nose in front of his face, applies at scores of recruiting stations in the hope of passing the physical examination. Soon he has the largest collection of rejection slips in the country, but doggedly he keeps on trying. To develop his fragile arms he works for four months as a taffy puller, and then two months in the taffy department of the same factory to develop his teeth. For his back, legs and ankles he joins a vaudeville team of foot jugglers, and after five months of hard work balancing barrels on his soles, he applies at the ninety-fifth and last recruiting station. But again he is rejected before the examination is half through. His long-suffering patience at last breaks down, and he gives vent to the longest, most picturesque, colorful and original stream of profanity that the experienced examining officers have ever heard.)

CLEAR YOUR HEAD, BREAK THAT COAL

Get after that cold, cough, gripple with Dr. King's New Discovery.

Don't wait until it "sets" into your entire system and approaches the dangerous stage. Go to a druggist, as millions of others have done during the last fifty years, and get a fifty-cent bottle—the same price it always has sold at.

Throat-blebs is relieved by the first spoonful, eyes stop watering, chest-phlegm loosens, sneezing ceases, cough ceases up, sniffling is done away with, quick relief follows.

Good for every member of your family from Grandma to the youngster. Just say "King's New Discovery," to your druggist, he'll have it.

Keep Bowel Movement Regular.

Dr. King's New Discovery causes a healthy flow of bile and rid your stomach and bowels of waste and fermenting body poisons. They are a tonic to your stomach and liver and tone the general system. First dose relieves. Try it today. Still sold at all druggists.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ECZEMA AND PILES

Thousands and thousands of people, says Peterson, are learning every week that one cent box of Peterson's Ointment will abolish Eczema and Piles, and the grateful letters I receive every day are worth more than money.

I had Eczema for many years on my head and could not get anything to do it any good. I saw your ad and got one box, and I owe you many thanks for the good it has done me. KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which could be enjoyed by everyone by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

CHAPTER XIV.

That Sick Man From San Antonio.

It was part of the strategy practiced by the Cuban leaders to divide their forces into separate columns for the purpose of raiding the smaller Spanish garrisons and harassing the troops sent to their relief, reassembling these bands only when and where some telling blow was to be struck.

When O'Reilly and Branch enlisted in the Army of the Orient they were assigned to the command of Col. Miguel Lopez, and it was under his leadership that they made their first acquaintance with the peculiar methods of Cuban warfare.

There had been, at first, some doubt of Branch's fitness to take the field at all—he had suffered a severe hemorrhage shortly after his arrival at Cabañas—and it was only after a hysterical demonstration on his part that he had been accepted as a soldier. He simply would not be left behind. At first the Cubans regarded him with mingled contempt and pity, for certainly no less promising volunteer had ever taken service with them. But upon the occasion of the very first fight all ill-will disappeared as if by magic, for, although Branch deliberately disobeyed orders, he nevertheless displayed such amazing audacity in the face of the enemy, such a theatrical contempt for bullets, as to stupefy every one. Moreover, he lived up to his reputation; he continued to be insanely daring, varying his exploits to correspond with his moods, with the result that he attained a popularity which was unique, nay, sensational.

O'Reilly alone understood the reason for the fellow's morbid irritability. His suicidal recklessness; but when he privately remonstrated he was gently told to mind his own business. Branch flatly refused to modify his conduct; he seemed really bent upon cheating the disease that made his life a misery.

But, as usual, fate was perverse; she refused to humor the sick man's hope. When, after blindly inviting death, Leslie had emerged from several engagements unscathed, his surprise—and perhaps a natural relief at finding himself whole—became tinged with a certain apprehension lest he survive those deliberately coursed dangers only to succumb to the ill and privations of camp life. The fellow's tongue grew ever sharper; his society became intolerable, his gloom oppressive and irresistibly contagious. When, after several weeks of campaigning, the column went into camp for a short rest, O'Reilly decided that he would try to throw off the burden of Leslie's overwhelming dejection, and, if possible, shift a portion of it upon the shoulders of Captain Judson.

On the day after their arrival O'Reilly and the big artilleryman took advantage of a pleasant stream to bathe and wash their clothes; then, while they lay in their hammocks, enjoying the luxury of a tattered old-cloth shelter and waiting for the sun to dry their garments, O'Reilly spoke what was in his mind.

"I'm getting about fed up on Leslie," he declared. "He's the world's champion crepe-hanger, and he's painted the whole world such a deep, despondent blue that I'm completely dismal. You've got to take him off my hands."

O'Reilly's youthful assistant, who at the moment was peacefully manufacturing a huge, black cigar for himself out of some perfunctory tobacco, pricked up his ears at the mention of Branch's name and now edged closer, exclaiming:

"Caramba! There's a hero for you. Meester Branch is the bravest man I ever seen. Our people call him 'El Demonio'!"

O'Reilly jerked his head toward the Cuban. "You see? He's made the life of his life, and yet he resents it. My nerves are frayed out. I've argued myself hoarse, but he misconstrues everything I say. I wish you'd convince him that he has a chance to get well; it might alter his disposition. If something doesn't alter it I'll be court-martialed for shooting a man in his sleep, and I'll hit him right in the middle, no matter how slim he is." O'Reilly compressed his lips firmly.

The assistant, who had finished rolling his cigar, now lighted it and repeated: "Yes, sir, Meester Branch is the bravest man I ever seen. You remember that first battle, eh? Those Spaniards seen him coming and threw down their guns and beat it. I laugh to think myself that day."

"Jacket" was at once the youngest and the most profane member of Colonel Lopez's entire command. The most shocking oaths fell from his beardless lips whenever he opened them to speak English, and O'Reilly's efforts to break the boy of the habit proved quite unavailing.

This Camagueyan boy was a character. He was perhaps sixteen, and small for his age—a mere child, in fact. Nevertheless, he was a seasoned veteran, and his American camp-mates had grown exceedingly fond of him. He was a pretty, graceful youngster; his eyes were large and soft and dark; his face was as sensitive and mobile as that of a girl; and yet, despite his youth, he had won a reputation for daring and ferocity quite as notable in its way as was the renown of Leslie Branch.

In order to expand his knowledge of English—of which, by the way, he was inordinately proud—Jacket had volunteered to serve as O'Reilly's striker, and the result had been a fast friendship. It was O'Reilly who had given the boy his nickname—a name prompted by a marked eccentricity, for although Jacket possessed the two garments which constituted the ordinary insurgente uniform, he made a practice of wearing only one. On chilly nights, or on formal occasions, he wore both waistcoat and trousers, but at other times he dispensed entirely with the latter, and his legs went naked. They were naked now, as, with the modesty of complete unconsciousness, he squatted in the shade, puffing thoughtfully at his giant cheroot.

Once Jacket's mind was fastened upon any subject, it remained there, and after a time he continued:

"Did I told you about that battle of Pinar Bravo? Eh? He turned his big brown eyes upward to O'Reilly. "Cris-ti! I skill more'n a dozen men that day!"

"It was a hot scrimmage," Judson attested. "Some of League's niggers, those tall, lean, hungry fellows from Santiago, managed to back their way through a wire fence and get behind a detachment of the enemy who had made a stand under a hill. They charged, and for a wonder they got close enough to use their machetes. It was bloody work—the kind you read about—no quarter. Somehow Jacket managed to be right in the middle of the butchery. He's a brave kid, all right. My mald!"

At that moment Branch approached, his long face set in lines of discontent, even deeper than usual. He had been wandering about the camp in one of his restless fits, and now he began:

"Say, what do you think I've been doing? I've been looking up some grub for Miss Evans, and I can't find any."

"Can't find any?"

"Nothing fit for her to eat. You don't expect her to live on this infernal, eternal beef stew?"

"Didn't Major Ramos bring anything along?" O'Reilly asked.

"He says there's a famine at Cabañas."

"We'd better look into this," Judson exclaimed, and, fluting that his clothes were dry, he hurriedly began to dress himself.

Together, the three men made an investigation of the camp's resources, only to discover that Branch was right. There was, indeed, but little food of any kind, and that little was of the coarsest. Ordinarily, such a condition of affairs would have occasioned them no surprise, for the men were becoming accustomed to a more or less chronic scarcity of provisions; but the presence of Norine Evans put quite a different complexion upon the matter. They were still discussing the situation when Miss Evans, having finished her afternoon nap, threw open the flaps of her tent and stepped out.

When she had listened to the account apologetically submitted by her three friends, she drew her brows together, saying, plaintively: "Oh dear! We've been going short for a week, and Major Ramos told me we'd fare better when we got here. I had my mouth all set for a banquet. Couldn't you even find the poor dog a bone?"

"I'm afraid the cupboard is bare," O'Reilly acknowledged.

"Do you know what I want for dinner?" Norine inquired. "Lamb chops with green peas, some nice white bread, a salad, and coffee."

The three men looked at her anxiously. Judson stirred uneasily.

"That's what I want. I don't expect to get it."

With a sigh of relief the captain exclaimed, "I thought you were giving your order."

"Goodness, no!" With a laugh the girl seated herself upon her one camp-chair, inviting her callers to dispose themselves on the ground about her. "If you can stand the food, I dare say I can. Now then, tell me what you've been doing since you left Cabañas. I've been frightened to death that some of you would be hurt. That's one reason why I've been working night and day helping to get the hospitals in shape. I can't bear to think of our boys being wounded. Everything is so different to what I thought it would be, and I'm so weak and ineffective. The medical supplies I brought are nearly all gone, and I've learned what hard work it is

"Tell Me What You've Been Doing Since You Left Cabañas."

"Gets-It"—2 Drops—Then to the Dance!

"Goodnight to Corn Pains—Corns Peel Off With 'Gets-It'."

"Say, girls, you can laugh at tight shoes, or aching, burning, excruciating, hot, itchy corns, chafes on the sides of your feet, corns between the toes, hard and soft corns."

fitting up hospitals when there's nothing to fit them up with." She sighed. "I imagined I was going to work wonders—I thought I was going to be a Florence Nightingale, and the men were going to idolize me."

"Don't they?" Judson demanded.

"No. That is—not in exactly the way I expected."

"They all want to marry her," O'Reilly explained.

"Insolent bunch!" growled the captain. Then he swallowed hard and said, "But for that matter, so do I."

"How silly you boys can be!" Norine laughed. "I dare say the others are joking too, but—"

"Joking?" O'Reilly grinned. "Not at all. I'm the only single man in camp who isn't in love with you. When you arrived this morning there was a general stampede for the river. I'll bet the fish in this stream will taste of soap for years to come."

As if to point O'Reilly's words at the moment appeared Colonel Lopez, shaved blood-red and clad in a recently laundered uniform which was still damp. The three Americans rose to salute him, but discipline was lax and he waved them back to their seats.

"We've been talking about food," Leslie Branch advised his commanding officer. "Miss Evans isn't a burning patriot like the rest of us, and so of course she can't share our ravenous appetite for beef cooked and eaten on the hoof."

"So?" Lopez's handsome face clouded. "You are hungry, then?"

Norine confessed that she was. "I'm starving!" said she. "I haven't had a decent meal for a week."

"God be praised! I know where there is a goat, not two leagues away!" said the colonel.

U. S. Congressman Quickly Finds Stomach Relief

Joseph Taggart, M. C. from Kansas, Declines EATONIC Heat for Indigestion He Ever Had.

A congressman hears many arguments for and against different preparations. His mind is open to conviction, but before he casts his vote, on any measure he insists upon evidence that, on its own weight, carries conviction.

In the case of "EATONIC," Joseph Taggart, Congressman from the 2nd District, Kansas City, Kan., decided that a trial of the remedy, itself, would furnish the most conclusive proof. Read his decision.

"One box of EATONIC will convince the most skeptical. It is the best remedy I have ever tried for indigestion."

Respectfully,
JOSEPH TAGGART,
M. C. 2nd Dist., Kansas City, Kans.

Nearly all stomach trouble is caused by too much acid in the stomach. EATONIC neutralizes the excess acidity and enables you to eat in comfort and digest what you eat in a state of perfect health.

Here's the secret: EATONIC drives the gas out of the body—and the bloated condition is gone. It costs only a cent or two a day to use it. Get a box today from your druggist.

Dinner Stories

There was no room telephone in the hotel chamber which he nighted for a single night. But there was a pushbell with a card over it that said: "Ring once for ice water; twice for a bell boy; three times for chambermaid; four times for porter."

He desired ice water, and tried to make his wants known. After a half hour a porter presented himself and looked around for baggage.

"Ice water," the man said, severely. "The card says to ring once for—"

"A casual acknowledgment of the porter," said the guest, "but I don't know what you ring once for—times or to."

The story of the "nice-old-lady" who visited to a London hospital who asked too many questions was told to the Gyró club banqueters by Lieut. McIntyre, Canadian veteran.

"She had exhausted my information," the lieutenant said. "The next day she encountered was a member of the Royal Flyers."

"Oh, I'm so pleased," she said, "to meet a flying man. Do tell me what you do when you run out of gasoline 'way up there in the air.'"

"Madam," the flyer told her, "we have no choice but to wait for some one to come out our assistance."

"Do you know," he added, with growing solemnity, "there are thousands, literally thousands, madame, caught up there without gasoline who serve to death for lack of assistance."

"Who was that old guy I saw you with at the club yesterday?" asked the moderate joker.

"That was a very interesting man," answered the friend. "He's an old salt with a peppery disposition."

"I thought he was a well seasoned leader," said the joker with a shrill of laughter.

New Vapor Way of Treating All Cold Troubles

North Carolina Druggist Invents a Salve That is Vaporized by the Body Heat.

NOTHING TO SWALLOW YOU JUST RUB IT ON

Particularly Valuable to Mothers with Small Children. Local Druggists Are Offering 25c Jars on 30 Days' Trial.

Colds are simply inflammations of the air passages and everybody knows that the only way to reach the air passages direct is by means of vapors that can be inhaled. The old-fashioned vapor treatments however, were cumbersome and costly, but a North Carolina druggist solved this problem by inventing a salve that is vaporized by the body heat.

This preparation, known as Vick's VapoRub, is now being introduced here. The local druggists know the danger of constant "doings" especially to small children, and are anxious that all their customers should try this new "outside" treatment. Arrangements have accordingly been made with the manufacturers to sell the small size jars, price 25c, on 30 days' trial—no charge to be made if the customer is not delighted with the results.

For deep chest colds, sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, or incipient pneumonia VapoRub should be applied over the throat and chest and covered with a warm flannel cloth. The vapors arising carry the medication, with each breath, to the air passages and lungs. In addition VapoRub is absorbed through and stimulates the skin taking out that tightness and soreness in the chest.

For head colds, hay fever, catarrh or asthmatic troubles VapoRub can either be applied up the nostrils or a little melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled. (Group is usually relieved within fifteen minutes and one application at bedtime prevents a night attack.)

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky, round and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

SCHOOL LESSON.

Golden Text: If any man would be first, he shall be last of all and servant of all, Mark IX, 35.

JESUS REVEALS SELFISHNESS.

It seems incredible that the disciples after years of intimate observation of Jesus and his essentially democratic spirit should still think he was about to set up an imperial throne.
In this, however, they only shared the national obsession that the Messiah was to do this very thing. In their personal ambition in that connection they were just intensely human. Selfish competition among themselves in the matter of rank, office and emolument was the inevitable outcome. Hence the mother of two of the best of the whole number, probably with their knowledge if not their connivance, asked that her sons should sit one on the right and the other on the left of the Messianic throne, and the whole company on the way from the Transfiguration were in a feverish excitement, the three, referring to some precedence on account of it and the nine denying it stoutly. * * * * *

It seems unnecessary to affirm omniscience to explain Jesus' knowledge of the subject of that furtive dispute among his followers. As a wise teacher he knew the exact stage they had reached in their moral evolution. He knew how immature and selfish they really were. * * * * *

Jesus used the kindergarten method with these children of a larger growth when he called a child of the home in which he lodged and set him in the midst of these competitors for official prizes.
That child was the incarnation of unselfish love. There was no self-consciousness in him, much less any ambition, pride or office or arrogance of any kind. He was devoidly the very self, obedient and teachable. * * * * *

The prerequisite, the indispensable condition of "receiving" a little child is to be like the child. There must be community of ideas and aims. Jesus goes a step further and identifies himself with the child; he also is the unweary spirit, humble and laying, aiming only to be of genuine service. * * * * *

There is a brand new ideal and standard, the total and perpetual reversal of all that had hitherto maintained in the world's thought and practice, and of it Jesus was himself the working model. Every deed, every word, the whole tone and spirit of his life, portrayed and emphasized nothing else but this. * * * * *

Jesus' words
recalled John of a recent experience of which he is at the same time conscience-stricken. The well-meaning man whom John forbade to use Jesus' name even in his good deeds because he was not as yet ecclesiastically affiliated, was like the little child still in Jesus' arms, a child in understanding the meaning of Christ and, exercising his power, but he should have been "received" and not forbidden. * * * * *

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.
The old Jesus' revelation of his disciples' dark could not stamp out the selfish ambition of his disciples resulting in two things. First, the dullness of their perception. Even Peter's level-headedness seems to have been only a smug from which he quickly recovered. They failed to really sense the situation. On the other hand the superstition and of their self-seeking increased the dullness and slowness of their perception. * * * * *

Ego-
tism and selfishness sometimes results both in the very idiom of a language. When a student of Arabic translating a sentence from English into that language read it, "Mary and I," the native teacher corrected it and said "I and Mary." A certain eccentric monk is affirmed to have put himself before the Deity in a public address, saying "Me and God." * * * * *

Jesus affirms it a good and beneficial maxim to take it for granted in the start, that whoever is not outspoken in opposition is favorable, until the contrary is evident. This course certainly tends to encourage and foster any small disposition to be favorable which the opposite course may stifle at once. * * * * *

The seeds of faith
however small and wherever found are to be fostered, not discouraged.
* * * * *

The uniqueness of Jesus held just as a doctrine has precious small influence upon human life and character, but his omniscience apprehended as a fact is both restraint and comfort. * * * * *

Jesus, in his own person, met and defeated the temptation against which he attempts to warn and fortify his disciples. Imperial power was proffered him at a price. He lays it down as an axiom that whoever starts to be first shall end with being last. * * * * *

Imperialism has been the prime and deadly temptation of both church and state. Both, in the ideal form, are only servants, never lords. * * * * *

Sympathetic appreciation of childhood is indubitable mark of a noble character. Jesus had it. He worked unweariedly on children as a class than any other. He let a boy furnish him with the material basis of one of his greatest and most significant miracles. He took the little dead maiden by the hand and said to her affectionately, "Come now, little girl." He set a child in the midst of his disciples. When they forbade those who brought their children to him, Jesus was displeased and said "Suffer them to come. Forbid them not." Of such are the kingdoms. The angels are there and they are already part and parcel of the kingdom of grace. * * * * *

He stands for the defense of childhood.
Pollution of a child makes a capital sin, affirming that it were better such as one were drowned in the depths of the sea (a capital punishment of Roman law and custom). * * * * *

Reference upon ecclesiastical enrollment involves a severe blow in Jesus' words "Forbid them not." In answer to a false confession that finding a man that did good but did not join the company of the disciples. * * * * *

It is one thing to accept the Christ of the cross. It is another to accept the cross of Christ. Both are indispensable to discipleship. * * * * *

Not once but every day Jesus sets a child in the midst as a remembrance of himself and the way into his kingdom and the spirit of it.

April 28, 1918. Luke XIV, 15-23.
THE POWER OF THE CROSS IN THE CITY SLUM.
Motto: The preaching of the cross is the power of God. St. Paul.
A living minister of international reputation told recently of passing a spot where a foul murder had been committed in Whitechapel. Sawdust had been thrown upon the pavement to absorb the blood. A moment later he was on the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral. The city was wrapped in a London fog, but the weird babel of the multitude came up to him from every side and the memory of the murder recurred to him. Just then the sun penetrated the pall and looking up he saw the golden cross surrounding the church all ablaze. He cried "That is what will save the slum. The spirit of love and sacrifice that the cross symbolizes. Not as theory or dogma, but lived out in personal contact with the people whose supreme need is that of love and helpful service!"

GOVERNOR PROCLAIMS MAY 3 ARBOR DAY

Madison, April 26.—Gov. Philipp today issued an arbor and bird day proclamation naming Friday, May 3, which in part reads as follows:
"Let us give expression of our gratitude for those beautiful creatures by planting a tree in some place where a mighty oak has fallen or where a shrub once has withered for the want of care to the end that beautiful trees and shrubs shall not grow less and the bird home not destroyed."

"May 1 be permitted to recommend to you dear people of Wisconsin that since our country is engaged in a great war and you must give your son to it that you plant an abundance of flowers. They will aid in dispelling the gloom or feeling of loneliness because of the absent ones and for each son who goes to war that all who can plant a beautiful young tree to commemorate his going."

SCHOOL IN TOWN OF HARMONY DEDICATED

Appropriate Exercises Held In The Building Last Evening—Talks By State School Inspector And
O. D. Antisdal
Dedication exercises for the modern school building in District No. 8, of the town of Harmony, were held in the school last evening. W. E. Larson, state inspector of schools, and O. D. Antisdal, county superintendent of schools, gave short talks in which they commended Rock County for building such a fine educational institution. There were also several vocal songs and singing by the entire assemblage.

The room was well filled with people, not only from that school district but from adjoining districts, who greatly enjoyed the program.

"The school is modern in every respect, and the people in District No.
8 are justly proud of it. It is built of brick and has a spacious basement with a furnace and other necessary equipment. It is the kind of school that Rock County is going to build in the future to replace the old-fashioned wood structures with poor ventilation and heating facilities. It is situated at the 'fork' in the road to Milton and Milton Junction, about four miles north of the city."

Around The State

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
At Menasha.
Menasha, April 25.—When the honor flag awarded to this city for "going over the top" in the third Liberty loan was unfurled in the city triangle over five thousand persons witnessed the ceremony. The immense assemblage stood with bared heads while the Jackie band played the national anthem as the stars and stripes, closely followed by the honor flag, were hoisted to the top of the flag pole.

City Attorney Enlists.
Manitowish, April 26.—L. W. Ledvina, city attorney, left today to report for active service, having enlisted in a branch of the army. His brother, Joseph P. Ledvina, who enlisted in the U. S. navy and who was serving as clerk of courts here, left for a training camp early in the week. As a result of the two enlistments the city is without an attorney and the county is minus a court clerk.

Hard on Wife Deserters.
Manitowish, April 26.—Wife deserters receive little sympathy in court here.
John Cross, who has wife and five children he failed to support, received a year's sentence to hard labor in prison, while Murray Pherson, convicted of a similar offense, also drew twelve months in Waupun. Mrs. Cross testified that at the time of her marriage her husband said the bonds would only last three years and that she had wished that such had proven to be the case.

Stricken With Apoplexy.
Sheboygan, Wis., April.—William Wedegartner, president of the Wisconsin Cheese Dealers' association, and head of the Sheboygan County fair, while driving his automobile Thrusday, was stricken with apoplexy and died in front of the city hall. His sister was with him at the time and applied the brakes as the car skidded in the curb, when Mr.
Wedegartner exclaimed: "Oh my head," and dropped back in the seat dead.

AGRICULTURE TEACHERS ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

Madison, Wis., April 26.—The demand for agricultural teachers in secondary schools, normal schools and colleges and for men to do extension work and research work for the federal government is so great that the supply cannot possibly meet it.
"The importance of an agricultural education cannot now be over estimated," is the conclusion of J. A.
James of the department of agricultural education of the University of Wisconsin.

"It is the plan of the department of agriculture," says Mr. James, "to put at least one man in every one of the 7,000 counties of the United States. Iowa has already placed an agent in each of her 100 counties.
Wisconsin has found men for 53 of her 71 counties. Minnesota, once well provided with high school agricultural teachers, has lost 50 per cent of her staff through enlistment and calls to county agent positions. Graduates or undergraduates in agriculture, with or without training in teaching, are in demand for instructional work."

"This great demand for secondary instruction during the present war period indicates a development in agriculture like that of the land grant colleges which followed the civil war.

Everything points to an even wider agricultural interest after the war is over."

Whitewater News

Whitewater, April 26.—A miscellaneous shower was given last evening to Miss Etta Anderson, at the home of her brother on the former Julius Tratt farm, just south of the city. Miss Anderson is to be married the first of the week to Ira Marshall, and they will make their home in Chicago.

Mrs. Mary Hastings died in Chicago April 14, after an illness of two months. She deceased was a former resident of this city, having made her home here while her son, Guy, was a student in the school. She was born in Wales in 1855 and her maiden name was Mary Stephens. Mrs. Hatfield Fellows and daughter Carrie, from here attended the funeral.

At the meeting of the school board it was decided by an unanimous vote to suspend the teaching of German at the end of the school year. Some other language will be substituted.

Miss Bertha Stockland was in Milwaukee last week, where she had an operation for double vision.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Halverson and daughter of Milton Junction, were here yesterday.
Miss Katharine Pierce is in Milwaukee spending the week with friends.

Instead of having a four-minute speaker at the Strand last evening, a song "What are you Going to Do to Help the Boys," was given by high school students.

sippi, Governor Pleasant of Louisiana
